Hello to all,

Well, [Redacted] survived Tropical Storm Lili just fine. The storm produced about 4 hours of heavy rain and wind (Saturday night/Sunday morning) but it spared us any damage. After the abnormal amount of rainfall over the last ten days, the island has greened up considerably. The FBI CP and the JTF had to be completely taken down and then put back together 2 times due to the changing forecast. That was a pain, but now everything is back to normal. We were even "confined to quarters" from Saturday afternoon until noon on Sunday with no street traffic allowed. [Redacted] used this time to get to know each other a little better.

Our workload has become a little too over-weighted with the DHS group. We had a couple of successes with that bunch and I think that they are our friends for life. There is obvious friction between the BSC team (DoD Behavioral Science) and the DHS interrogators which makes our presence a little uncomfortable at times.
